

I'm a Flight Attendant and am totally oopposed to the use of cell phones on airplanes inflight. There is no hard evidence that cell phones don't interfere with navigational instruments; using them inflight can facilitate terrorists actions; a lot of people who fly are uptight to begin with and adding an additional irritant to an already stressful situation potentially will lead to more stress; further, if people are on their cell phones they would not be able to listen to safety announcements therefore compromising our ability to maintain a safe, secure cabin environment.
